MARK ATTANASIO

Chairman and Principal Owner

Mark Attanasio enters his 21st season as chairman and principal owner of the Milwaukee Brewers. Over the course of Attanasio's leadership, the Brewers have been one of the National League's most competitive teams, holding the fourth-highest winning percentage in the NL since the 2005 season (1628-1511, .519). The Brewers also have the eighth-most wins in Major League Baseball since Attanasio became principal owner. Over the past eight seasons, the Brewers have reached the postseason six times, missing out in 2017 and 2022 by just a single game. The team holds the third-highest winning percentage in the National League since 2017 (666-529, .557), trailing the Dodgers and Braves. Milwaukee is one of three teams to win at least 86 games in each of the past seven full seasons (not including 2020), joining the Astros and Dodgers.

Over the past 21 years, Attanasio has been committed to the Brewers fan experience, and through significant investments, American Family Field has been and continues to be consistently rated as one of the best venues in all of sports. His dedication to the ballpark led to a monumental bi-partisan legislative agreement in 2023 to keep the Brewers in Milwaukee through at least 2050, which included a $150 million commitment from the organization.

Further, Attanasio has prioritized efforts to have a broad, positive impact on the Milwaukee-area community and throughout Wisconsin. Through the establishment of Brewers Community Foundation (BCF), the team's charitable arm, and through community relations efforts year-round, the Brewers are an integral part of the fabric of the community. As a result of Attanasio's steadfast dedication to invest in these efforts, BCF has generated more than $60 million over the past decade to support local non-profits in the areas of health, education, recreation and basic needs. Approximately 200 non-profit organizations receive funding annually through Brewers Community Foundation's grant process.

Attanasio remains focused on his longstanding objective to establish the organization as a champion both on and off the field, and he continues to work diligently to uphold the four cornerstone pledges he made to the Brewers and to the community when the team was purchased in 2005.

RICK SCHLESINGER

President - Business Operations

Rick Schlesinger enters his 23rd season with the Brewers and seventh in his current position after being promoted on January 23, 2019. He has previously held roles with the organization as executive vice president of business operations (2003-10) and chief operating officer (2011-18).

Schlesinger oversees the organization's business operations, including finance, human resources, information technology, legal, sponsorships, marketing, ticketing, business analytics, broadcasting, communications, stadium operations and non-baseball special events.

In addition, he oversees American Family Fields of Phoenix (the team's Spring Training complex) and the business operations of the Carolina Mudcats, the organization's Low-A affiliate. Schlesinger is a member of Major League Baseball's Youth Baseball and Labor Policy Committees.

He serves on the board of directors of the Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce, the board of trustees at Barton College (NC) and on the board of visitors of the University of Wisconsin-Madison History Department.

The Brewers have established records in nearly every aspect of the business during Schlesinger's tenure. More than 2.5 million fans have passed through the gates of American Family Field in 14 of the past 16 seasons (excluding the 2020 and 2021 restricted capacity seasons). In that time, the organization has built a focus on the fan experience, developed new and enhanced partnerships and completed several major development projects that benefit various stakeholders. Recent major investments in the fan experience at American Family Field include a new main scoreboard and a second digital board in right field (2024), the J. Leinenkugel's Barrel Yard (2023) and X-Golf (2022). After the success of the 3rd Street Market Hall Annex on the right field Loge Level, the Brewers have added The Alley, Food Truck Park on the left field Loge Level for 2025, partnering with local owners to feature unique Milwaukee fare.

Additionally, continued improvements have been made to ease entrance and departure from the ballpark, as MLB Go-Ahead Entry and Express Lanes will be in effect for the 2025 season. Recently, Schlesinger joined elected officials in leading a successful effort to secure a generational lease extension for the Brewers at American Family Field. The new lease and associated funding to maintain and improve the ballpark ensures that American Family Field will be home to the Brewers through at least 2050.

MATT ARNOLD

Senior Vice President and General Manager

Matt Arnold, enters his 10th season with the Brewers, fifth as general manager and third leading the organization's baseball operations. He was named the 10th general manager in franchise history on November 19, 2020 and was promoted to head baseball operations on October 27, 2022. He originally joined the Brewers as vice president and assistant general manager on October 14, 2015.

In his nine seasons in the organization (2016-24), Arnold has helped Milwaukee to the third-best winning percentage in the National League (739-618, .545), six postseason berths (2018-21, 2023-24) and four National League Central Division titles (2018, 2021, 2023-24).

Arnold was named 2024 MLB Executive of the Year, an award voted on by executives from all 30 clubs prior to the start of the postseason, becoming the first Brewers' executive to earn the honor.

Arnold was also named 2024 MLB Executive of the Year by Baseball America and The Sporting News.

Arnold constructed a roster in 2024 that went 93-69, finishing in first place in the National League Central division for the second consecutive season, 10.0 games ahead of the Cardinals and Cubs. The Brewers tied the Padres for the fourth-best record in baseball, trailing only the Dodgers (98-64), Phillies (95-67) and Yankees (94-68). He made a series of key decisions that contributed to the successful season, including hiring 2024 National League Manager of the Year Pat Murphy and signing outfielder Jackson Chourio to an industry-record contract for a player without prior Major League experience.

Prior to joining the Brewers, Arnold spent nine seasons with the Tampa Bay Rays, assisting then Executive Vice President of Baseball Operations Andrew Friedman and President of Baseball Operations Matt Silverman with player acquisitions, contract negotiations and player evaluations at all levels. His responsibilities also included strategic planning, foreign and domestic special assignments and coordinating advance scouting for the postseason. Additionally, he worked to develop the process of integrating science, biomechanics and human movement analysis within all levels of baseball operations. During his time in Tampa Bay, the Rays won over 90 games in five of six years from 2008 to 2013 and qualified for the postseason four times (2008, 2010-11, 2013), including the team's first World Series appearance in 2008.

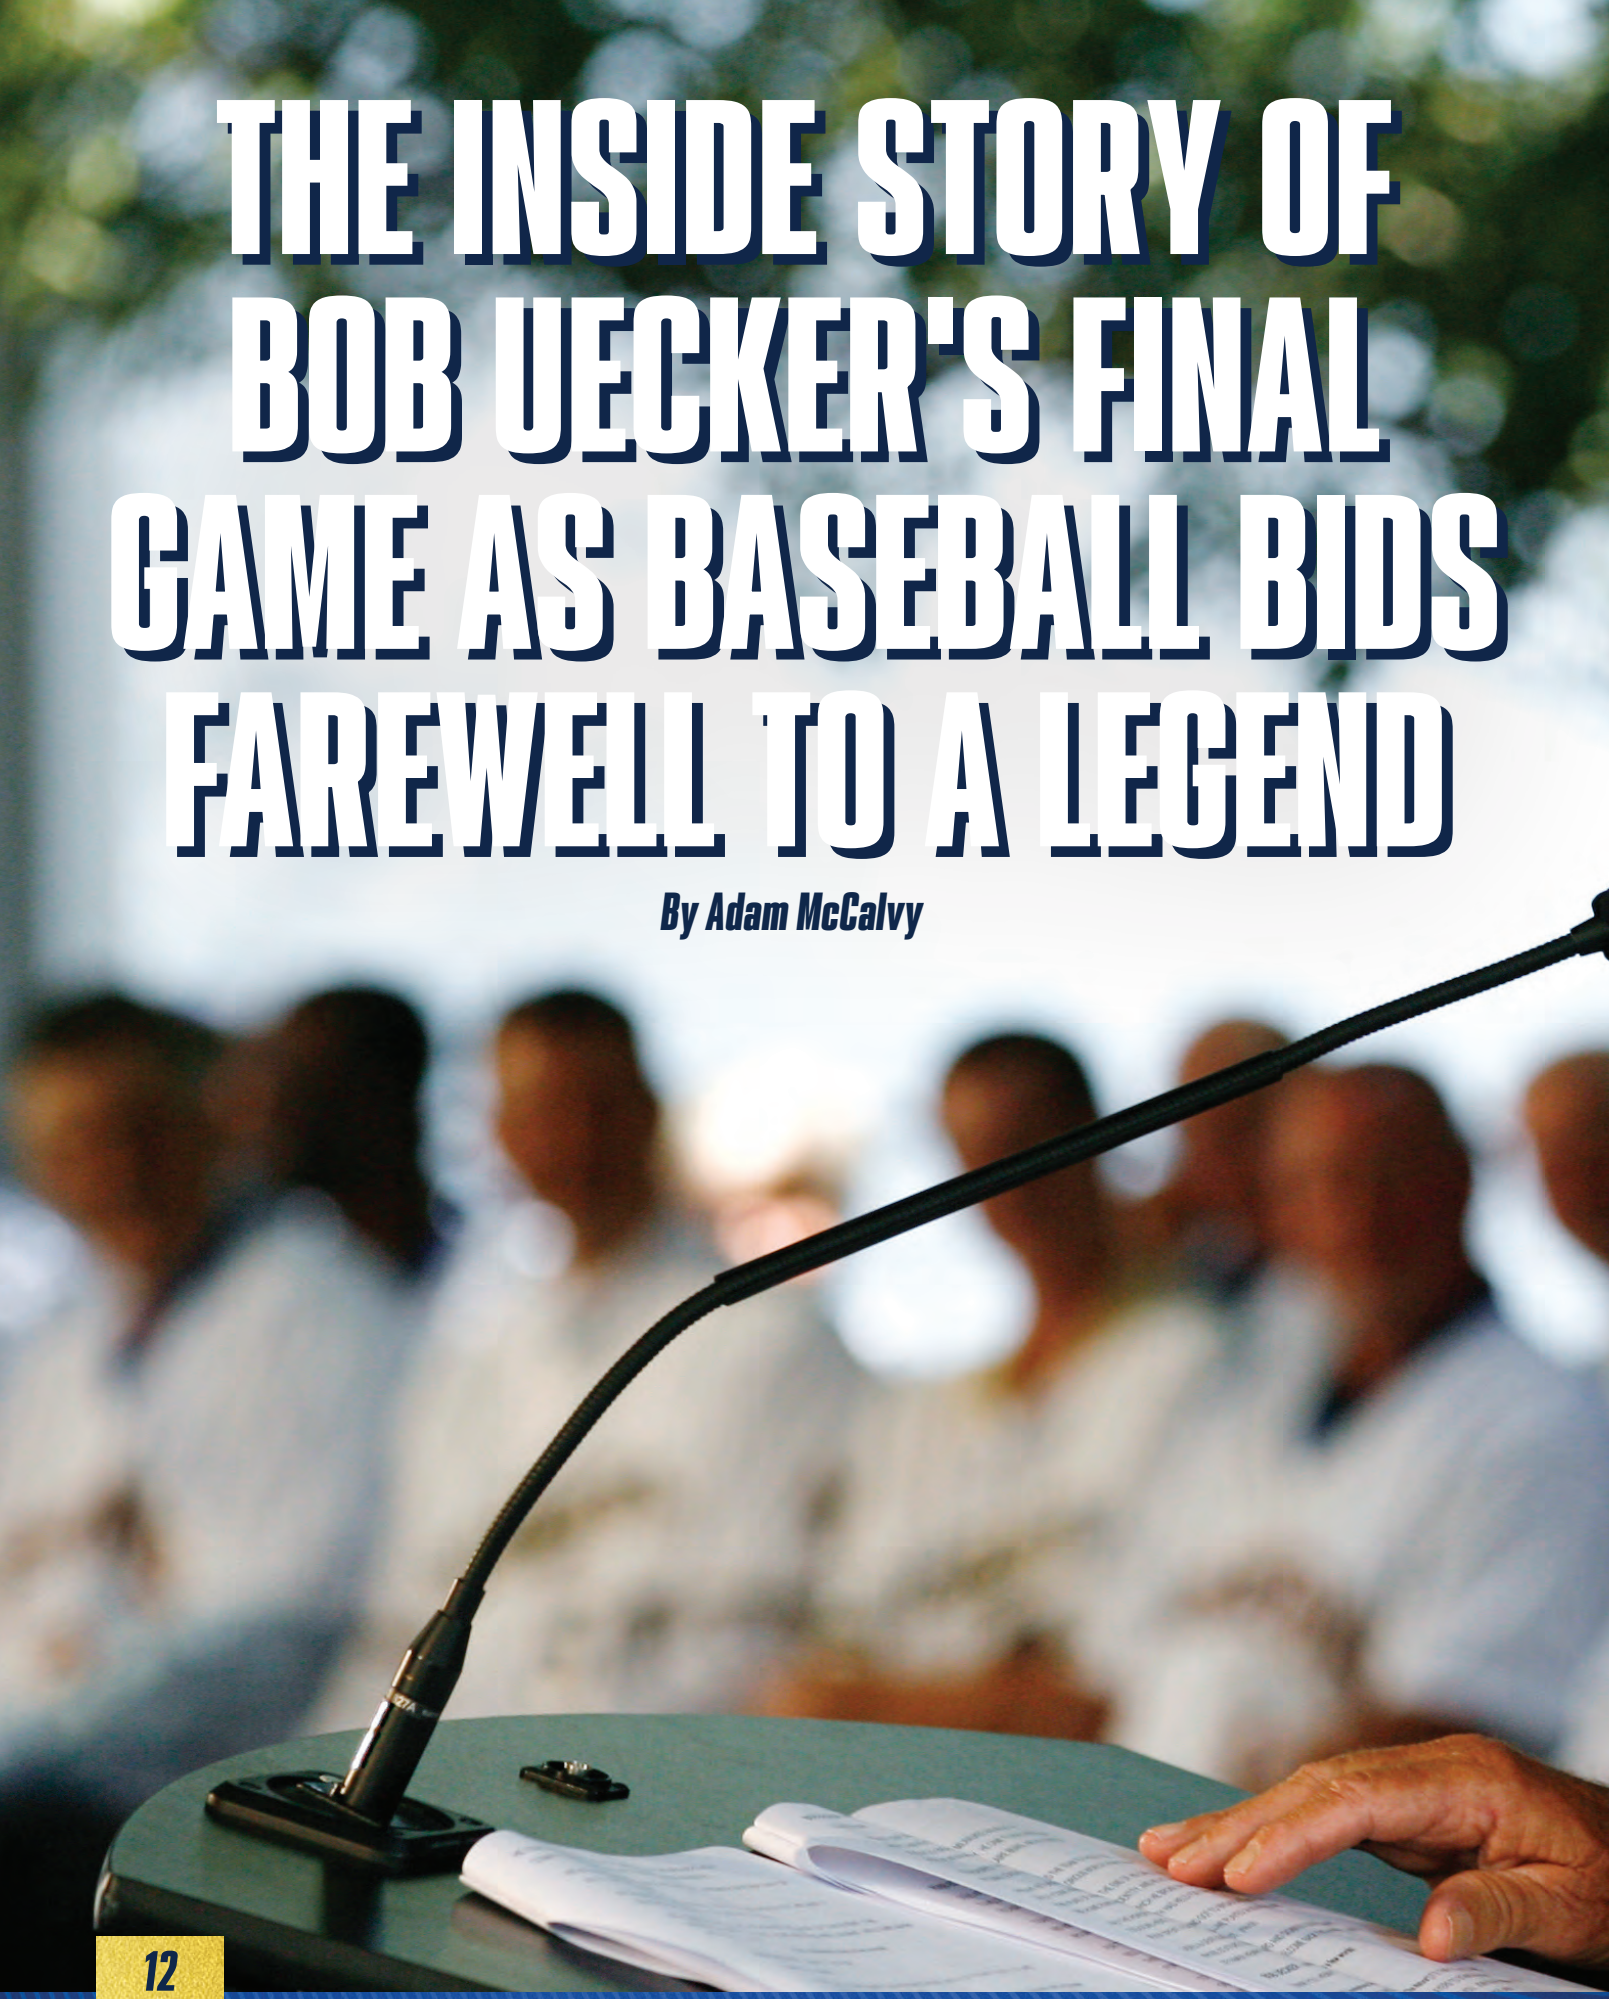
THE INSIDE STORY OF BOB UECKER'S FINAL GAME AS BASEBALL BIDS FAREWELL TO A LEGEND

By Adam McCalvy



MILWAUKEE -- Jeff Levering, the Swiss Army knife of the Brewers' broadcast team who bounces between radio and television depending on the need, has a voicemail from Bob Uecker which he will treasure forever. It is short and sweet.

"Great job tonight," Uecker said with the upbeat lilt known to generations of baseball fans. "We'll see you tomorrow." It was the night of Oct. 2. The Brewers had just rallied to beat the Mets in Game 2 of the National League Wild Card Series with eighth-inning home runs from 20-year-old phenom Jackson Chourio and Garrett Mitchell. Uecker was listening to Levering and Lane Grindle call the thrilling finish on his car radio during his drive home.

Uecker hadn't called a Brewers game for some time, weakened by myriad health concerns, including his family revealed after news of Uecker's passing at age 90, a multi-year battle with small cell lung cancer. He'd come to American Family Field for Game 1 of that series but was unable to work. Uecker intended to work Game 2 and even did his pregame show with Brewers manager Pat Murphy, but by game time he was spent. He told Levering, "All right, you got it."

All season long, that's how it went. Levering, Grindle and Josh Maurer reported for duty each home game and if Uecker worked, he worked. If he didn't, he didn't. After 54 years calling games for his hometown team and entertaining generations of baseball fans, he'd more than earned that right. So, Levering and Grindle called Game 2 against the Mets while Uecker sat in the back of the booth. In the seventh inning, he headed home.

But then the Brewers rallied to extend their season, and during the postgame radio show, Uecker left Levering that voicemail. "I'm never going to delete that message," Levering said. "After that, I had a feeling he was going to work Game 3. There was no way that he was going to miss that one. And he called another brilliant game." What a gift for Brewers fans it was, sour ending and all. Jake Bauers and Sal Frelick hit back-to-back homers in the seventh, and the Brewers had the lead with All-Star closer Devin Williams on the mound in the ninth and two outs to go.

Unfortunately, Uecker didn't get to call a victory. Pete Alonso connected for a go-ahead homer and the Mets won, ending the Brewers' season. Before Uecker made the rounds in the clubhouse afterward to say goodbye to the players he so loved, he signed off on the air to fans..

"I'm telling you," he said on the Brewers Radio Network, "that one - had some sting on it."

"Knowing everything I've known for the last couple of years and how hard it's been for him, it felt like that was his goodbye," Levering said. "You know, you just never know. And we've been in this pattern for a long time, and he's Superman, and he always finds a way to come back from whatever he's fighting. But that one felt different.

"It was hard, it was tough, but he was still very upbeat when he said goodbye. It felt like that night he was not ready to say goodbye. With every sentence that he continued with, it was him just trying to prolong his time on the air."

As Levering began the postgame show, Uecker sat in his seat and looked at the field. His wife, Judy, always by his side at the ballpark in recent years, walked down to Uecker's seat and put a hand on his shoulder. On the air, Levering's voice crumbled.

Eventually, Uecker left his seat and met Grindle in the back of the press box. Grindle extended his right hand and prepared to say goodbye, but Uecker said, "I'm not done with you yet. You're with me."

Watching Uecker bid farewell to players down in the clubhouse, Grindle sensed that Uecker knew he'd called his final game. So did the players, including Christian Yelich, who first met Uecker on a private jet alongside franchise icons Robin Yount and Ryan Braun as the group traveled to the team's fanfest, just days after the Brewers acquired Yelich from the Marlins.

"I knew Bob was going through that battle for some time," Yelich said. "That's why that last game was as emotional as it was. Privately, a few of us knew that was likely the last one we would have Bob be a part of. He's been such a big part of the Brewers and all of our lives that it was kind of hard to process at the time."

But even as emotions flowed more than usual, Uecker still managed to make people laugh. He never lost that ability.

"The moment he told me [about his cancer diagnosis] was typical Bob," Grindle said. "It was in Spring Training in '23 and we're in a commercial break of our first game and he turns to me and says, 'Oh, I have cancer,'" Grindle said. "I'm like, 'What?' And then we're back on the air. We do the half-inning and go to the next break and I turn to him to say, 'Can you elaborate, please?'"

Uecker preferred to keep his health concerns private. "After he got confirmation of exactly what he was up against, there were times he would do radiation during the day and come straight to the ballpark," Grindle said. "Sometimes I wondered, 'How is he going to do a game tonight?' Then the music started and something out of this world would take hold of his body and he would go into broadcaster mode. It was incredible. That guy was a lion."

Said Levering: "There was not a bad day when Bob was at the ballpark. He made you feel that way whether you were listening to him or you were in his presence. He made you feel like a million dollars and you were the most important thing going on that day, and just being in his presence made you smile.

"I have stories that I will take with me forever about him. Stuff on the air, stuff off the air. But my favorite moments are just sitting around the back of the booth at the table and having story time with Bob, weaving generations. I would walk away, like, I just talked to him about a 20-year-old Jackson Chourio, and then immediately he transitions to stories about catching behind Ted Williams. Who else can do that?" No one could. Because there was no one like Uecker.

"I would say 1960 is when we met," said Brewers founder and MLB Commissioner Emeritus Bud Selig, who was a Milwaukee Braves fan, then a Braves investor before he brought baseball back to the city in 1970, and placed Uecker in the radio booth in '71. "I don't know what to say. He was remarkable. And you know, he made himself into a great announcer. Let's not forget that. He was a great baseball announcer."

That fact is sometimes lost amid everything else Uecker did in a career that spanned radio, television, film, advertising and even books. Uecker wrote two, including "Catcher in the Wry," a clever play on words for a backstop-turned-humorist.

When the Brewers arrived in '70, the Braves' departure still stung. With his wit and warmth, Uecker helped Milwaukee fall in love with baseball again. "He was their voice every day. He was their guy, he was their link," Selig said. "A Milwaukee guy. And that never changed."

Uecker was known around the world for his work on screens large and small, but the clubhouse, the field and radio booth in Milwaukee were always his home.

Brandon Woodruff shared a tidbit not shared before, and it illustrated how important Uecker was to the Brewers. There were times over the years that a manager would call a meeting to spark the ballclub, and it was Uecker who was summoned to the head of the room. How many other broadcasters can claim that?

"There's probably been a handful of times he's done that for us," Woodruff said. "It's like, 'You're one of us,'" said Ryan Braun. "You knew he was going to bring joy to your life and to a locker room." And those players, in turn, provided Uecker joy for the last 54 years.

"He loved going to the ballpark, and he loved doing the games," Selig said. "Even this year, with his health, he did some games he shouldn't have done. I used to kid him, 'Bob, you know you're not going to get fired,' right?

"He was just good at everything he did, but he loved being around the guys above all. There are certain things that are true: Bob loved Milwaukee, and, boy, did he love the Brewers."

BREWERS' MEN OF STEAL

By Dennis Sell

Blessed with a youthful, fast, and athletic squad, coupled with manager Pat Murphy's desire to be more aggressive on the bases, the Milwaukee Brewers stole 217 bases during the 2024 season, the second-highest total in team history. The 2024 squad trailed only the 1992 Brewers, who swiped 256 bases.

Furthermore, the 2024 Brewers established a new team record with an 83.8% success rate (217 steals in 259 attempts), surpassing the 2023 success rate of 82.2% (129 bases in 157 attempts). Although still holding the club record with 256 stolen bases, the 1992 Brewers, managed by rookie skipper Phil Garner, were successful only 69.0% of the time (256 steals in 371 attempts).

As shown in the accompanying chart, the 2024 Brewers' 217 stolen bases ranked second in Major League Baseball, trailing the Washington Nationals' total of 223. Major League Baseball teams stole a total of 3,617 bases, the most in 109 years and the third highest since 1900. Last season's total was an increase from the 3,503 thefts in 2023. The high number of stolen bases during the past two seasons can be traced to a series of rule changes implemented prior to the 2023 campaign, one of which was a limitation on the number of pick-off throws to first base.

Brice Turang led the Brewers with 50 stolen bases, becoming only the fifth player in team history to pilfer 50 or more bases in a season. Milwaukee's second baseman joined Tommy Harper, who stole 73 in 1969, Pat Listach (54 in 1992), Scott Podsednik (70 in 2004) and Jonathan Villar (62 in 2016). Listach, in his first season in '92, won the American League's Rookie of the Year award.

Turang was caught only six times, finishing with an amazing 89.3% success rate. Five other Brewers – Blake Perkins, Jackson Chourio, Willy Adames, Christian Yelich and Sal Frelick – each stole more than 20 bases last season. Turang finished with the third-highest stolen base total, trailing only Shohei Ohtani of the Los Angeles Dodgers with 59 and Elly De La Cruz of the Cincinnati Reds, who stole a Major League-high 67 stolen bases.

In his rookie 2023 season, Turang stole 26 bases in 30 attempts, an 86.7% success rate, bringing his two-year career total to 76 stolen bases in 86 attempts.

BREWERS' 2024 GRAND SLAMS & MEMORABLE BASES-LOADED SHOTS FROM SEASONS PAST

By Dennis Sell

The Milwaukee Brewers tied a franchise record with 10 grand slams in 2024, tying a mark originally set by the 1995 Brewers.

The 2024 Brewers' grand slams came in bunches. Manager Pat Murphy's crew blasted five of their 10 slams in a nine-day period covering eight games in June. Rhys Hoskins' bases-loaded shot on July 5 was Milwaukee's sixth grand slam in less than two weeks. Only two other teams have done that - the 1996 Montreal Expos and the 2020 San Diego Padres. In September, Milwaukee hit three more grand slams in a 26-day span.

Nine of the 10 shots were hit by four players - Rhys Hoskins with three, and Jake Bauers, Brice Turang and Jackson Chourio with two apiece. Milwaukee won seven of the 10 games in which they hit a grand slam. Seven of the slams were hit at American Family Field. A recap of all 10 is shown in the accompanying chart.

LOOKING BACK AT THE 1995 GRAND SLAMS

First baseman John Jaha belted three of the 10 grand slams. Outfielder Matt Mieske hit two, while Joe Oliver, Kevin Seitzer, José Valentín, Dave Nilsson and Darryl Hamilton blasted one each. The Brewers were victorious in nine of these 10 games. Seven of the bases-loaded shots were hit on the road.

Valentín hit the most dramatic grand slam, a full count, two-out shot off Mike Timlin to give Milwaukee a 10-9 victory at Toronto's Skydome on June 21, 1995. The most ironic? That would have to be Mieske's pinch-hit grand slam in the seventh inning at Minnesota's Metrodome on September 3, 1995. Why was this home run memorable? Well, the blast was hit off pitcher Pat Mahomes, father of current Kansas City Chiefs' star quarterback Patrick Mahomes!

2024 GRAND SLAM HOME RUN DETAILS

MEMORABLE GRAND SLAMS IN FRANCHISE HISTORY

ROBERTO PEÑA
Saturday night, May 30, 1970

An Inside-the-Park Grand Slam

Second baseman Roberto Peña stepped to the plate in the first inning at County Stadium with the bases loaded and two out. Peña ripped a line drive to right-center. Detroit Tigers' center-fielder Jim Northrup and right-fielder (and future Hall-of-Famer) Al Kaline both converged on the ball. The two players collided, with both falling to the ground as the four runs crossed the plate. It was the Brewers' first grand slam and first inside-the-park homer.

GEORGE SCOTT
Sunday afternoon, July 29, 1973

The "Boomer"s Memorable Shot

With first base open in the seventh inning of the second game of a twinbill against the Yankees, Sam McDowell intentionally walked Milwaukee's left-handed hitting Davey May to load the bases. Many fans thought that New York manager Ralph Houk would summon right-hander Lindy McDaniel to replace southpaw McDowell to pitch to the right-handed hitting George Scott. That didn't happen. The "Boomer" stepped to the plate and torpedoed McDowell's first pitch two rows from the top of the left-field bleachers. As Scott circled the bases amidst a thunderous applause, the Brewers' first baseman menacingly shook his finger at McDowell, apparently for having the audacity to intentionally walk a player to face Scott. The crowd of 32,436 gave such a lengthy ovation that George emerged three times from the dugout to acknowledge their cheers.

DON MONEY
Saturday afternoon, April 10, 1976

The Grand Slam That Wasn't

In the second game of the 1976 season, the Yankees scored five ninth inning runs to turn a 6-4 deficit into a 9-6 lead entering the bottom of the ninth. Milwaukee loaded the bases as Don Money stepped to the plate. The Brewers' third baseman hit Dave Pagan's pitch into the left field seats to give the Brew Crew a walk-off 10-9 win. As Money rounded the bases, Yankees' skipper Billy Martin rushed out of the dugout to face first base umpire Jim McKean. "You called timeout before the pitch," Martin said to McKean. As the umpires huddled, the Brewers enthusiastically romped into their clubhouse and the County Stadium crowd went wild. McKean admitted that he had called timeout, albeit not emphatically. The home run was nullified, and the Brewers were called back onto the field. As Martin walked back to the dugout, he was pelted with empty cups and rolled bratwurst wrappers, causing the colorful manager to remove his hat and bow to the angry crowd. It would be nice to say that Money proceeded to hit another grand slam. As the veteran later commented, "I hadn't hit a grand slam in the ninth inning to win a game in ten years, so I sure wasn't going to do it twice in 15 minutes." Money flied to right field as the Brewers lost, 9-7.

SIXTO LEZCANO, GORMAN THOMAS & CECIL COOPER
Friday, Saturday & Sunday, April 7, 8 & 9, 1978

Three Grand Slams in Three Days

While the Milwaukee Brewers went through the 1976 season without hitting a grand slam, their 1978 counterparts belted three in three consecutive games to open the season. In the seventh inning of the home opener on April 7, Sixto Lezcano blasted a bases-loaded home run off the Orioles' Tim Stoddard to give rookie manager George Bamberger an 11-3 win. In the Brewers' 16-3 victory the following day, Gorman Thomas keyed an eight-run first inning with a grand slam. It was Cecil Cooper's turn in the series finale as the Brew Crew's first baseman belted a fourth inning grand slam in a 13-5 win. The Brewers outscored Baltimore in the series, 40-11. The team would soon be known as "Bambi's Bombers."

SIXTO LEZCANO
Thursday, April 10, 1980

An Opening Day Walk-Off Grand Slam

On Opening Day 1980, the Brewers entered the top of the ninth leading Boston by a 5-3 score. This edge soon evaporated as Carl Yastrzemski and Butch Hobson each hit solo home runs off Jim Slaton, tying the game. Sixto Lezcano came to the plate with the bases loaded and two outs in the bottom of the ninth. The right fielder blasted a Dick Drago pitch into the bullpen to give Milwaukee a dramatic 9-5 win, setting the stage for a spontaneous celebration at home plate as pandemonium reigned from the 53,313 in the stands. Cecil Cooper and Don Money each hit grand slams in the following day's game in an 18-1 thrashing of the Red Sox. The three grand slams in two consecutive games established an American League record.

RYAN BRAUN
Sunday afternoon, September 15, 2019

Braun's Dramatic 2-Out, 2-Strike Grand Slam

Ryan Braun, the Brewers' perennial slugger, thrived in clutch situations. The Brewers entered their September 15 encounter with the Cardinals in third place in the NL Central and seemingly out of the playoff picture. Trailing St. Louis by a 4-3 score in the top of the ninth, Ryan Braun came to the plate with two outs and the bases loaded. Hitless in his three previous at-bats and with two strikes, Braun belted a dramatic grand slam to give Milwaukee a critical win. The Brewers would go on to win 9 of their next 10 games and advance to the postseason as the NL wild card team.

DANIEL VOGELBACH
Sunday afternoon, September 5, 2021

A Pinch-Hit Grand Slam Highlights a 5-Run 9th Inning

At 6-feet, 270 pounds, Daniel Vogelbach was an imposing figure as he walked to the batters' box. With one swing of his bat, the barrel-chested first baseman etched his name into Brewers' lore. Vogelbach had joined the Brewers midway through the shortened 2020 Covid season. Posting a .328 batting average and a .987 OPS over 19 games with the Crew, Daniel earned himself a spot on the 2021 roster. Trailing, 5-1, entering the bottom of the ninth, few of the 33,945 fans in attendance gave the Brewers much of a chance for a comeback win. Jackie Bradley Jr. led off the inning with a ground-rule double and came around to score on Luke Maile's single to make the score 5-2. After Luís Urias struck out, Jace Peterson doubled and Eduardo Escobar walked to load the bases. Manager Craig Counsell then sent Vogelbach to the plate as a pinch hitter. Vogelbach responded with a line-drive grand slam into the lower deck of the right field seats to give the Brew Crew a dramatic 6-5 win, sending the stunned crowd into a state of pandemonium!

TALES OF GOLD AND PLATINUM

TALES OF GOLD AND PLATINUM

For just the second time in their 55-year history, the Milwaukee Brewers can boast multiple Gold Glove Award winners. Second baseman Brice Turang and right-fielder Sal Frelick were winners of an award that annually recognizes the best defensive players at each position in the American and National Leagues.

The only other season when Milwaukee had two Gold Glove Award winners was 1979, when the duo of first baseman Cecil Cooper and right-fielder Sixto Lezcano were honored.

Turang, who led all infielders with 22 defensive runs saved, became the first Brewers' second baseman to win a Gold Glove. His 2.7 defensive wins above replacement topped the National League and tied for second place in the majors.

Frelick joined Lezcano (1979), Carlos Gómez (2013) and Lorenzo Cain (2019) as the only outfielders in team history to win a Gold Glove Award. Frelick recorded 16 defensive runs saved and seven outs above average, including two home run robberies among his personal highlights.

And there's more. Shortly after Turang and Frelick were announced as Gold Glove Award winners, it was announced that Brice had won the Platinum Glove Award as well. That means Turang wasn't just the best defender at his position but that he was the best defender in the entire National League at any position!

In accepting the awards, Turang commented, "You're trying to get the pitcher off the field as quickly as possible. You put a lot of work into this game, and you go out there and play your best. You try to help get pitchers out of innings. It's always fun seeing a ball go over my head and seeing Sal making some crazy catch jumping into the wall."

"It's obviously an honor," Frelick said. "I think that it's even cooler to do it with Brice. Just watching him put in the work he did, he's obviously so deserving. Playing with him for the past few years, and playing with him in the minors, it's kind of cool that we got to win this award together. Defense has been the identity of our team the past few years."

The Brewers have had eight players win a total of 13 Gold Glove Awards in their history. Prior to Turang and Frelick, Lorenzo Cain was the last player to accomplish the feat in 2019. George Scott is the dean of Gold Glove awards, winning the honor during each of his five seasons with the Brewers. The "Boomer" also won three Gold Gloves with Boston, giving the slick-fielding first baseman eight career awards. Here is a listing of Brewers' Gold Glove award winners:

George Scott–1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976

Cecil Cooper–1979, 1981

Sixto Lezcano–1979

Robin Yount–1982

Carlos Gomez–2013

Lorenzo Cain–2019

Sal Frelick–2024

Brice Turang–2024

CC Sabathia was elected to the Hall of Fame in his first appearance on the Baseball Writers' Association of America ballot. (Milo Stewart Jr./ National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum)

'C' STANDS FOR 'COMPETITOR'

CC SABATHIA INSPIRED HIS TEAMMATES IN EACH OF HIS THREE BIG LEAGUE STOPS.

By Sweeny Murti

CC Sabathia had the rare distinction of making all-time great impacts on three different organizations.

In Cleveland, where he was drafted in the first round (20th overall) in 1998, Sabathia was one of the great power pitchers of the early 2000s. He was runner-up to Ichiro Suzuki for the 2001 AL Rookie of the Year Award, a three-time All-Star and the 2007 AL Cy Young Award winner.

"Cleveland is obviously special to me because I felt like I grew up there," Sabathia said. "So that place always holds a special place in my heart."

In Milwaukee, where he played the final three months of the 2008 season, he became a legend in only 17 starts. After being traded in July, Sabathia went 11-2 with a 1.65 ERA, seven complete games and three shutouts to lead the Brewers to the postseason for the first time in 26 years.

"Milwaukee has left a huge impression on me. Some of those guys are lifelong friends. The time I spent in Milwaukee was very special."

And in New York, where he signed as a free agent prior to the 2009 season, Sabathia became a World Series champion and a Hall of Famer.

"The impact that city has had on me, I don't know if I can put it into words."

The final 11 of Sabathia's 19 Major League seasons were spent in the famous pinstripes. Five years after he retired, Sabathia was named on 86.8 percent of ballots in the Baseball Writers' Association of America Hall of Fame election to earn a spot in Cooperstown.

"The Hall of Fame is exactly for people like CC Sabathia," said Derek Jeter, his Yankees teammate from 2009-14. "You speak to anyone who played with him or against him, and they'd say he was by far one of the best pitchers during that era."

Carsten Charles Sabathia's road to Cooperstown began as a youth in Vallejo, Calif., and the decision to join the Yankees completed his journey. He helped make the Yankees champions again at a crucial turning point in the franchise's history.

And it all began with that amazing run in Milwaukee to close out the 2008 season. He made each of his final three starts on three days' rest. Taking the ball – in fact, demanding it – resonated deeply with his teammates.

"What he did those three months for that city was something special," said former Brewers catcher Jason Kendall. "He was a god in Milwaukee for those three months because he picked our whole team up, put us on his shoulders."

"When he came into the clubhouse in 2008, it changed our room," said former Brewers infielder Craig Counsell. "Very few people can do that."

His three-month stint was so impressive that he finished fifth in the NL Cy Young Award voting and sixth in the NL MVP balloting.

Meanwhile, the Yankees had missed the postseason entirely in 2008 for the first time in 14 years. They were looking to bolster both their rotation and their clubhouse leadership and loved what they saw in Sabathia during that magical run with Milwaukee.

"I saw what he did with Milwaukee, and I just remember thinking, 'Man, give me that dude – bring him aboard with us,'" said former Yankees pitcher Andy Pettitte.

That winter, the Yankees signed Sabathia to a seven-year contract and made him the highest-paid pitcher in the game.

"I thought it instantly made us a World Series contender coming off the year that he had in Milwaukee and seeing how much he loved to compete," said then-Yankees manager Joe Girardi.

"You can't win a championship unless you've got a true number one," Pettitte added. "When we signed him, we got that."

"He helped solidify our staff," Jeter said. "It gave all of us confidence to know that here we are, we missed the playoffs (last year), and it just added a level of confidence to our team."

Off the field, Sabathia brought a unifying personality that was hard to deny. It was the other big part of why the Yankees wanted him, believing he could heal a clubhouse that had lost some of its cohesiveness from the dynasty years of the previous decade.

"Going into that offseason, I heard all the stuff that was going on, all the turmoil in the Yankees' clubhouse," Sabathia said. "I had come from Cleveland and Milwaukee, where that was the most important thing, and it just didn't seem like it was that important [in New York]."

The Yankees convinced Sabathia that was the reason they wanted him in New York: To bring that same energy and team-building spirit he was known for. He quickly became the team social director and made sure that everyone on the team was included.

"He rented out suites to playoff basketball games, he rented out boats on the Fourth of July; it was just who he was," Girardi recalled. "I had heard he was a great teammate. I think you could ask people that played with him and the consensus would be that he's the best teammate they ever played with."

The old-guard Yankees were noticing his impact as well.

"CC did a great job of always getting the guys together and building chemistry," Pettitte said. "He's one of those bigger-than-life personalities. He comes into a room and people gravitate to him."

Mark Teixeira was another big-name free agent who joined the Yankees after 2008. He immediately noticed Sabathia's clubhouse leadership.

"I thought that team was really close, and part of the reason was even though we had a bunch of new guys, it took somebody like CC to kind of say, 'Hey, no more cliques. We're all hanging out together,'" Teixeira said.

The 2009 Yankees won 103 games in the regular season to easily capture the AL East division title. Sabathia won a league-best 19 games and led the Yankees with 34 starts, 230 innings pitched and 197 strikeouts. He would finish fourth in the AL Cy Young Award voting, but there was a bigger prize at stake.

Sabathia drew the Game 1 assignment in all three postseason rounds for the Yankees. What was the feeling like of sending Sabathia to the mound in Game 1?

"You have the utmost confidence," Jeter said. "It's the position you want to be in when you get to the postseason. We have CC. Who do you have?"

Sabathia won his first three starts of the postseason, including two in the ALCS, where he was named series Most Valuable Player and helped send the Yankees to the World Series for the first time in six years. By the time the Yankees beat the Phillies in six games to win the 2009 World Series, Sabathia had made five starts and pitched to a 1.98 ERA.

It was one of the most successful first years anyone ever had in New York, where expectations can weigh heavily on even the best players.

"He was a huge and instrumental part of us being able to make that run and win another championship," Pettitte said. "He delivered, and he was everything that the club expected him to be. That's hard to do in your first year in New York. CC was able to do that and had no problems adjusting."

"Playing in New York is different than playing anywhere else. CC just lived up to the perception of what he was," Jeter said.

His presence and aura were noticeable from the other side of the field, too.

"That's one of the things from the other dugout that shined through," said Hall of Famer Joe Mauer. "You could tell that he commanded the respect from his teammates. It was almost like they played harder for him. He went out there and wanted to win every night. He did everything he could to give himself the best chance, and I think that's why guys loved playing with him."

Over the next 10 years, Sabathia added accolades and accomplishments and cemented his Hall of Fame legacy. He won a career-high 21 games in 2010 to become the 14th member of the prestigious Black Aces and started a run of three straight All-Star selections.

Sabathia also established himself as one of the most durable and reliable pitchers of his time. During his 19-year career from 2001 to 2019, nobody in baseball won more games (251), made more starts (560), pitched more innings (3,577.1), struck out more batters (3,093) or threw more pitches (55,774).

He made 11 Opening Day starts and started Game 1 of a postseason series nine times.

In 2019, he passed the 250-win and 3,000-strikeout plateaus, making him one of just 15 pitchers in history to reach both milestones.

Among pitchers whose careers started in 1970 or later, he ranks 11th in wins and ninth in strikeouts.

With credentials like that, it's no wonder teammates and opponents would often describe Sabathia as a workhorse.

"You knew there was something a little bit different in there that on game day he took it very seriously," Hall of Famer and former Cleveland teammate Jim Thome said. "He was ready to go on the day that he pitched, and it really showed. He had this incredible presence, and he was dominant."

"He was just someone you always trusted when he was going out there that he was going to compete at the highest level," Girardi said. "Even in the back end of his career, I felt great when he took the mound."

Over his last several seasons, Sabathia's adjustment to decreased velocity due to age and injuries only added to the admiration.

"He just changed his arsenal and anybody that does something like that, it's really the desire that gets it done and the competitiveness and the will to win," former Yankees pitching coach Larry Rothschild said. "And CC was very much about winning games. He wasn't much about making it look good; it was about winning no matter what."

"CC is one of the fiercest competitors that I played with, and I played with a lot of great ones," Pettitte said. "I'd put him right up there with Roger (Clemens), the way he competed. Roger was one of the greatest competitors I had ever seen, and CC was cut out of the exact same mold.

"When he took the mound, he just kind of transformed into a different person, would take the ball no matter what. He's a warrior, he's a Cy Young Award winner, he's a world champion, and he's a true, true number one ace on any staff that he was pitching with."

And now, you can add one more title to CC Sabathia's résumé: Hall of Famer.

RYAN BRAUN INDUCTED INTO THE MILWAUKEE BREWERS WALK OF FAME

By Dennis Sell

Even though he retired after the 2020 season, Ryan Braun is still drawing accolades.

Braun became the 23rd player to be inducted into the Milwaukee Brewers Walk of Fame. His ceremony was on Sunday, July 28, 2024, at American Family Field prior to a game against the Miami Marlins.

In addition to his family and friends, Braun was joined by Doug Melvin, former Brewers general manager who drafted and signed Braun, owners Mark and Debbie Attanasio, and former teammates J.J. Hardy, Mike Moustakas, Corey Hart, Bill Hall, Carlos Villanueva, Mike Cameron, and former coach Ed Sedar.

Braun exuded self-confidence throughout his career. "On the day he signed his first professional contract, he walks up to Carlos Lee and taps him on the shoulder," Hall said. "Ryan tells Carlos, 'Don't worry, you'll have some protection in this lineup soon.' Carlos is our best hitter, our best player and he walks up to our number 4 and tells him this!"

Braun spent his entire 14-year career with the Brewers. He still tops the team in a number of categories, including being the all-time leader in home runs with 352. Ryan was named the NL Rookie of the Year in 2007 and won the senior circuit's Most Valuable Player Award in 2011. He compiled a career .296 batting average and an OPS of .891.

Besides being a key player for the Brewers in reaching the postseason in 2008 for the first time in 25 years, Braun led the league in slugging percentage three times (2007, 2011 and 2012), hits (2009), home runs (2012) and runs (2012).

Known as an excellent clutch hitter, Braun hit some memorable home runs during his career. A recap of 12 such moments are detailed in the accompanying chart.

RYAN BRAUN'S CAREER

12 Memorable Moments

His "Delightful Dozen"

November 12, 2007
Braun is named National League Rookie of the Year, leading NL rookies with 34 home runs, 66 extra base hits and topping all qualified NL hitters with a .634 slugging percentage, the highest mark by a rookie in Major League history.

September 25, 2008
Braun clubs his first career grand slam in walk-off fashion against the Pittsburgh Pirates in a 5-1 win.

September 28, 2008
Braun hits a game-winning two-run eighth-inning home run to defeat the Cubs, 3-1, as the Brewers clinch the NL Wild Card on the final day of the season.

September 23, 2011
Braun belts a game-winning home run in the eighth inning versus the Florida Marlins as the Brewers clinch the franchise's first divisional title since 1982.

October 2, 2011
Braun hits a two-run home run in the first inning off Arizona's Daniel Hudson, giving the Brewers a 2-0 lead in Game 2 of the NLDS. Milwaukee would not relinquish this lead, winning that contest, 9-4, and the series in five games.

November 22, 2011
Braun is named the National League's Most Valuable Player, becoming the third Brewer to be so honored (Rollie Fingers, 1981) and Robin Yount (1982 & 1989).

April 8, 2014
Braun ties the franchise record with three home runs and seven RBI in a 10-4 victory at Philadelphia.

August 15, 2015
Braun hits career home run 262 versus the Marlins, surpassing Robin Yount and establishing a club record.

September 8, 2017
Braun hits career home run number 300 in a game at Wrigley Field. He enters the 2018 season as one of 12 active players with at least 300 career homers.

April 3, 2018
Trailing the Cardinals 4-3 with two out and the bases empty in the bottom of the ninth, Christian Yelich ties the game with a home run. Ryan follows with a walk-off homer on the very next pitch.

September 28, 2018
Braun belts a pair of home runs, the second an eighth inning game-winner to give the Brewers a 6-5 victory over Detroit to keep pace with the Cubs for the division crown.

September 15, 2019
Trailing St. Louis, 4-3, in the top of the ninth with two outs, two strikes, and the bases loaded, Ryan belts a dramatic grand slam to give Milwaukee an important win. The Brewers would go on to win 9 of their next 10 games and advance to the playoffs as a Wild Card team.

Jackson Chourio is Milwaukee's 21-year-old phenom, and the word "incredible" doesn't even do his rookie season justice. It was historic. Chourio became the youngest player in MLB history to record a 20 HR/20 SB season, doing so 180 days younger than 3-time AL MVP Mike Trout. His record-setting year also extended into the postseason. In Game 2 of the Wild Card Series, Chourio joined Babe Ruth by becoming the second player ever to hit two game-tying home runs in one postseason game.

EMBRACING THE HYPE

A TIP OF THE HAT TO THE BREWERS' 2024 AWARD WINNERS

By Dennis Sell & Stavros Sardella

The Milwaukee chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America selected the following players for its 2024 season awards.

WILLIAM CONTRERAS

Most Valuable Player

William Contreras joined Willy Adames (2021 and 2022) as the winner of the Most Valuable Player award for the second consecutive season. The Brewers' catcher followed his stellar 2023 season with an equally impressive 2024 campaign. Contreras batted .291 with 23 home runs and 92 RBI in 155 games as he earned his second straight All-Star nod and first as a starter. The 26-year-old Venezuelan-born receiver led Milwaukee in batting average, runs (99), hits (167), doubles (37), on-base percentage (.365), slugging percentage (.466), OPS (.831) and walks (78). Contreras added his second consecutive Silver Slugger Award to his list of honors, joining Cecil Cooper, Robin Yount, Paul Molitor, Ryan Braun and Christian Yelich as the only Brewers players to accomplish the feat. Contreras further added to his list of personal achievements by being named the first-string catcher on the all-MLB team.

TOBIAS MYERS

Most Valuable Pitcher

A non-roster invitee to Spring Training, Tobias Myers posted a 9-6 record with a 3.00 ERA in 26 starts to earn the team's Most Valuable Pitcher award. Myers became the fifth rookie in franchise history to be so honored, joining Pete Ladd (1983), Teddy Higuera (1985), Junior Guerra (2016) and Devin Williams (2020). The 26-year-old, pitching for his sixth organization since being drafted by the Baltimore Orioles in 2016, made his debut on April 23. He posted a perfect 4-0 mark with a 1.44 earned run average during June and followed this up with ERAs of 2.70 in July, 2.67 in August and 3.03 in September/October. In his final 2024 appearance, Myers hurled five scoreless innings in his Game 3 start against the Mets in the NL Wild Card series.

JACKSON CHOURIO

Top Newcomer Award

Jackson Chourio's rookie season was one for the ages. The 20-year-old, who signed a historic eight-year, $82 million contract in December 2023 despite having never played a Major League game, batted .275 with 21 home runs, 79 RBI and 22 stolen bases in 148 games. More impressive were his statistics from June 1 to the end of the season, which included a .303 batting average, .351 on-base percentage, .530 slugging percentage, and an OPS of .881. Chourio became the youngest player in MLB history to post a 20-home run, 20-stolen base season and the first rookie in franchise history to accomplish such a feat. In the three-game Wild Card series, he batted .455 with a pair of homers, three RBI and a stolen base. His two home runs in Game 2, each tying the game, joined him with Babe Ruth as the only players in MLB history to hit two game-tying homers in the same postseason game.

JARED KOENIG

Unsung Hero Award

For a non-roster invitee to Spring Training, Jared Koenig made himself into a factor out of the bullpen with a 9-4 record, 2.47 ERA, a WHIP of 1.24 and 63 strikeouts in 62 innings of work over 53 appearances. Koenig was unscored upon as an "opener" in six games, including consecutive games at Boston's Fenway Park on May 24-25. He did so again on June 3-4 at Philadelphia to become only the fourth pitcher to start consecutive games more than once, and the first since Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox in 1973. Koenig posted a miniscule 0.66 ERA in 13.2 innings in June. Featuring a nasty sinker that sometimes reached 99 miles per hour, the 6-foot, 5-inch southpaw was particularly tough on left-handed batters, limiting them to a .198 batting average and a .275 slugging percentage.

MLB Executive of the Year

Brewers Senior Vice President and General Manager Matt Arnold was named 2024 MLB Executive of the Year. In his fourth season as GM, Arnold orchestrated key roster moves that bolstered the Brewers' competitiveness while maintaining a strong system and identity. His strategic approach to team building and his ability to balance immediate success with long-term sustainability earned him this prestigious honor. Arnold's leadership has solidified Milwaukee's status as a perennial contender in the National League.

PAT MURPHY

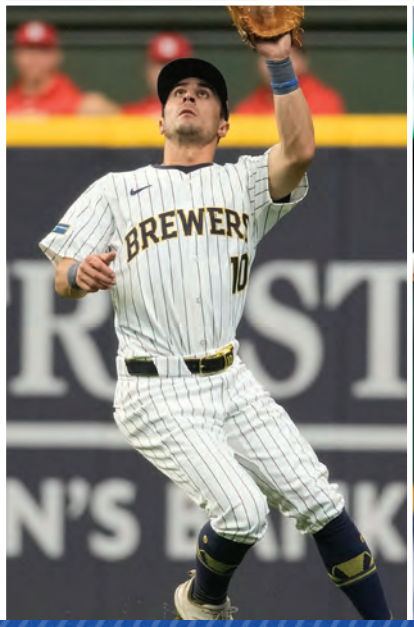
National League Manager of the Year

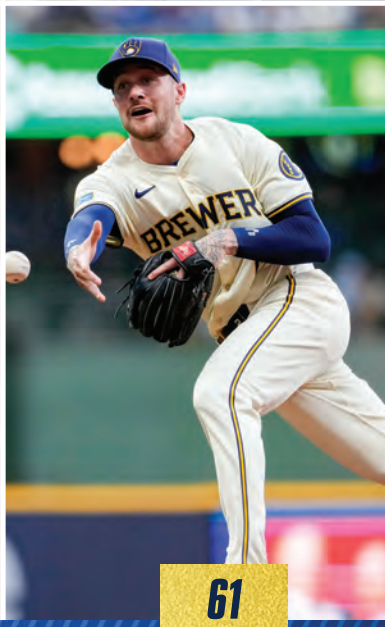
Pat Murphy's transition from longtime Brewers bench coach to manager was seamless, as he guided the team through an impressive season and earned the 2024 NL Manager of the Year award. Taking over after Craig Counsell's departure, Murphy instilled confidence in his players and kept the clubhouse chemistry intact. Under his leadership, the Brewers exceeded preseason expectations, overcoming injuries and adversity to secure a playoff berth. Murphy's ability to make in-game adjustments and keep the team motivated earned him 27 out of 30 first-place votes for the award.

SAL FRELICK & BRICE TURANG

Rawlings Gold Glove Award Winners

Brice Turang and Sal Frelick delivered standout defensive performances in 2024, becoming the first Brewers duo since 1979 to win Rawlings Gold Glove Awards. Turang, the Brewers' second baseman, led the National League with 22 defensive runs saved, showcasing elite range, quick reflexes and precision in turning double plays. His exceptional defensive play earned him additional recognition as the winner of the prestigious Rawlings Platinum Glove Award, distinguishing him as the best overall defender in the National League. Frelick, playing in the outfield, exhibited a tremendous ability to track balls and make difficult catches look routine. Both players were instrumental in the Brewers' defensive success, helping the team limit opponent scoring opportunities.





50 YEARS AGO . . .

1975 WHEN HAMMERIN' HANK RETURNED TO MILWAUKEE

By Dennis Sell

When Henry Aaron, at the age of 40, hit his 20th home run on the final day of the 1974 season, Milton Richman, then sports editor for United Press International, reported that the all-time home run champion would be a Milwaukee Brewer in 1975.

According to Richman, several factors were driving this decision. First, the Braves were planning to go with youth in 1975. Second, Aaron could no longer play the outfield, and the National League, unlike the American League, did not have the designated hitter rule. Finally, Aaron had played his first 12 seasons in Milwaukee, making the city a logical landing spot.

However, the Atlanta Braves weren't just going to "give" Aaron to the Brewers. They initially requested one of following youngsters in exchange for Aaron—either Sixto Lezcano, Charlie Moore or Gorman Thomas. On Saturday, November 2, 1974, as Aaron was in Japan defeating Sadaharu Oh, that country's top slugger, in a home run hitting contest, the two teams finally settled. Davey May, who had been a regular outfielder for Milwaukee since his acquisition from Baltimore in June 1970, was traded for Aaron.

The 31-year-old May was only a season removed from the 1973 campaign where he compiled an .824 OPS while establishing career highs in batting average (303), runs scored (96), hits (189), doubles (23), triples (4), home runs (25) and RBI (93). He was also named to the American League All-Star team and finished eighth in the voting for the league's most valuable player.

Aaron would be reunited with Brewers manager Del Crandall; the two were teammates on the Milwaukee Braves from 1954-63. Upon hearing the news, Robin Yount, who had turned 19 two months earlier, couldn't wait to tell his parents that he was going to play on the same team as Henry Aaron. Gorman Thomas, who had chosen uniform number 44 because Aaron was his boyhood hero, gladly gave up the number to Henry.

Milwaukee was all agog for Henry's return. Following his introductory press conference, Aaron visited the city's Children's Hospital and was an honored guest at the 22nd Milwaukee Baseball Writers' Association dinner. Between his promotional appearances on behalf of Magnavox, Aaron served as the Grand Marshal at the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day. After celebrating his 41st birthday in early February, it was time for Spring Training.

The April 11 home opener was officially designated "Welcome Home Henry Day." When Aaron was introduced to the sellout crowd of 48,160 at Milwaukee County Stadium, fans sang the following song to the all-time home run king.

WELCOME HOME, HENRY

(Sung to the Tune of "Hello Dolly")

Welcome Home Henry, Welcome Home Henry
It's so good to have you back where you belong
You're looking swell, Henry. We can tell Henry
You're still swinging, you're still slammin'
You're still going strong. We feel the stands swaying.
For the Band's playing
One of your favorite old hit tunes from way back when
So swing that bat, Henry. Empty those loaded bags, Henry
Henry will never go away. Henry will never go away again.

Aaron's single drove in a run in Milwaukee's five-run sixth inning in the Brewers' eventual 6-2 win over Cleveland. Aaron hit his first home run of the season off Gaylord Perry in Cleveland on April 18 and belted his first County Stadium homer off Oakland's Vida Blue on June 12. As a team, the Brewers played solid ball through the first three months of the season, leading the AL East for the first 23 days of May.

Milwaukee trailed the league-leading Red Sox by only a single game as they were about to host Boston in a three-game series on July 2. With Boston's Rick Wise one out away from a no-hitter in the opener of a doubleheader, George Scott and Bobby Darwin belted consecutive home runs, thrilling the 34,455 patrons and preventing the Boston right-hander from hurling his second hitless game. After Bobby Mitchell broke a tie with a sixth-inning, run-scoring single in the nightcap to give the Brewers a split, Aaron's eighth home run the following night gave the Brewers the series win.

With a 43-35 record, the Brewers were now tied with Boston for first place in the AL Eastern Division race as they prepared to open a seven-game road trip, starting with a four-game series with the last place Tigers. Detroit swept the Brewers, sending Milwaukee on a downward spiral, losing 59 of its final 84 contests.

While Aaron compiled a modest .234 batting average for 1975, his on-base percentage of .332 was nearly 100 points higher as pitchers continued to pitch him carefully. Playing in 137 games, he hit 12 home runs and drove in 60, which outpaced the totals of Milwaukee's designated hitters from the previous year.

Aaron's contributions to the 1975 Brewers went far beyond his own production. Yount, who was 19 years old that season, was one of several young players who credited Henry for his guidance and advice. George Scott said that Aaron, hitting behind him, had enabled the Gold Glove first baseman to get better pitches to hit. Rival pitchers hesitated to walk Scott and pitch to Aaron. As a result, the Boomer had the best overall season of his 14-year career. He tied Reggie Jackson for the AL home run crown with 36 and won the RBI title with 109. Scott batted .285 with a career high .857 OPS.

Hammerin' Hank concluded the season in a blaze of glory. In the season's final game on Sunday, September 28, a 7-0 win over Detroit, the home run king reached base all four times – a single, double, a pair of walks and an RBI.

MILWAUKEE COUNTY STADIUM'S FINAL CALL

By Dennis Sell

As morning dawned on Thursday, September 28, 2000, the bright sun made the 58 degree temperature seem more like summer than early autumn. This would go down in local history as the day when the 48-year old Milwaukee County Stadium would host its final game.

The Milwaukee Braves had won the first game ever played at the new ballpark before a then capacity crowd of 34,357 on April 14, 1953. A tenth inning walk-off home run by Billy Bruton, a shot which bounced off the glove of Cardinals' right fielder Enos Slaughter and over the four-foot fence, gave the hometown team a 3-2 win.

Fast forward to 2000. Although the current Milwaukee squad had won eight of its last nine games entering the final contest, the Brewers would collect only two hits in an 8-1 loss to Cincinnati. Warren Spahn and Del Crandall, the batteries in the 1953 opener, participated in the in the ceremonial first pitch prior to the final game, Spahn as the pitcher and Crandall as the catcher.

However, the stadium's final call is most remembered by the heartfelt closing ceremonies that followed the game.

The hosts of the closing ceremonies were three iconic Milwaukee broadcasters–Earl Gillespie, voice of the minor league Milwaukee Brewers (1951-52) and Milwaukee Braves (1953-63), Merle Harmon, voice of the Milwaukee Braves (1964-65) and Milwaukee Brewers (1970-79), and Bob Uecker, then completing his 30th year as a Brewers' announcer.

Green Bay Packers' president Bob Harlan, a frequent visitor to County Stadium during his days as a Marquette University student (1954-58) and the school's sports information director (1959-65) watched from the stands. Ben Barkin, former public relations executive and part of the Milwaukee Brewers' ownership group who would pass away the following year, was wheeled out on a hospital bed for the ceremonies.

TEXT OF BOB UECKER'S EULOGY

"Ode to County Stadium"

"County Stadium, here you are in all your glory. Forty-eight years have slipped away like a blink of an eye. Yet, the memories housed within your walls will live on forever. At first, you were called a jewel in the waiting, though soon a suitor would come calling. You promised to welcome all who visited and they came, first by the thousands, then by the millions. A champion was born in your midst and you stood proud when the rest of the world wondered how. Yet, those good times would not last. Brokenhearted, unwanted, emptiness became sadness. Yet you never asked why. For perhaps, just perhaps, you alone knew that the spring would bloom again. Oh, how you have changed in so many ways. Yet one thing remains. A bond between heroes and fans, and an ambition to succeed. It was here that boys became men. Men became champions, and champions became legends. It is a very sad time for me. For I have been here as a fan and a player and, for the last 30 years, as a broadcaster. But tonight is the final curtain; it's time to say good-bye. We will never forget you. For what was, will always be. So long, old friend, and good night, everybody."

First, home plate was dug up by the Brewers' ground crew, placed in a red wagon, and transported to the new ballpark by members of the local Girls of Summer Softball League. This was followed by a video feature on the scoreboard showing some of the memorable moments at County Stadium. Following the introduction of former general manager Harry Dalton, architect of the 'Bambi's Bombers" and "Harvey's Wallbangers" teams of the late 1970s and early 1980s, it was time for the main event–the introduction of many of the legends who once played in the park.

Henry Aaron, dressed in his Milwaukee Braves' uniform, was the first to be introduced. The others, introduced by Gillespie, Harmon and Uecker, walked onto the field, one by one, each wearing the uniforms of the teams they represented, to background music from movie soundtracks of "The Natural," "Field of Dreams," and "The Cider House Rules." The legends each went to their respective positons on the field, blowing kisses and tipping their hats to the cheers of 56,324, the largest regular season crowd in the stadium's history.

Upon his introduction, former Packer Fuzzy Thurston went into a three-point stance before running in place. Former Braves' pitcher Bob Buhl, who would die less than five months later, struggled mightily to walk to the pitching mound. Brewers' icon Robin Yount, the final player to be introduced, rode his motorcycle around the ballpark, recreating the trip he made during the celebration following the 1982 World Series.

By now, darkness had descended on the ballpark. The passing of the County Stadium flag from Bernie Brewer's chalet in centerfield to members of the team's front office to the baseball and football legends, one by one, until it reached Brewers Mark Loretta, Geoff Jenkins and Davey Lopes for delivery to the new ballpark. Loretta then delivered some brief comments. Each of the legends threw baseballs into the crowd.

Then it was time for the ballpark's final eulogy delivered by Uecker, who did so from memory as the lights were turned out one stanchion at a time. The emotional 211-word eulogy, along with introductions of former players by Gillespie, Harmon and Uecker, were all written by Mario Ziino, the Brewers' talented and creative director of publications.

Fireworks followed. Madonna's "This Used to Be My Playground" was played as fans exited the grand old ballpark for the final time.

Pat MURPHY

Manager

10TH SEASON WITH BREWERS | 2ND SEASON AS MANAGER | 2024 NL MANAGER OF THE YEAR

In his first season as manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, Pat Murphy took home the National League Manager of the Year honors. He is the first to do so in franchise history. The 2024 Brewers were predicted by many experts to finish middle of the pack, but Murphy made the team believe and led them to a 93-win season, and their third division title in four years. After a successful 21-year run as a collegiate coach (Notre Dame and Arizona State) and five years with the San Diego Padres, Murph joined the Crew as Craig Counsell's bench coach in 2015. After Counsell left for the Cubs before last season, Murphy was named the 20th manager in franchise history. For anyone who still decides to doubt the Brewers, look at these words from the Brewers manager before a game was even played in 2024: "Be careful, because they might just believe themselves right into contention."

Tyler Alexander was acquired via free agency after spending five years with the Detroit Tigers and last season with the Tampa Bay Rays. Of his 23 appearances in 2024, nine of them came as a starter and 14 came as a reliever, in which he sported a 6-5 record. Alexander also brings a consistent five-pitch mix which includes a sweeper that ranked in the top 10 in run value last season despite only using it 19% of the time.

Grant Anderson was added to the roster from the Texas Rangers via trade this offseason. The right-handed reliever adds depth to a solid Milwaukee bullpen. His 8.52 K/9 in 2024 makes him valuable for the 2025 campaign. Anderson also has a unique side arm delivery that can throw off right-handed batters. Of his 11 home runs allowed in 2024, only one came from a right-handed batter. He appeared in 26 games in Triple-A last season, going 3-0 with a 2.93 ERA.

Aaron Ashby became a late-season weapon for the Crew in 2024. After struggling with injury in ‘23 and early ‘24, Ashby burst onto the scene late last year with a 2.86 ERA and 33 Ks in just 28.1 innings. He can be used as both a starter and a reliever. Ashby was great out of the bullpen in 2024 (1.37 ERA and 28 Ks). His 25 career starts also proves his value in the starting rotation.

At just 20 years old, Jackson Chourio cemented himself as one of the top left fielders in baseball. In 2024, Chourio finished third in Rookie of the Year voting and became the youngest player to ever record a 20 HR/20 SB season. He is the only player to accomplish that feat at 20 years old (3-time AL MVP and future Hall of Famer Mike Trout did it on his 21st birthday). Chourio's historic year also extended into the postseason. In Game 2 of the Wild Card Series, he joined Babe Ruth as the only two players ever to hit two game-tying home runs in one playoff game.

Aaron Civale joined the Brewers by trade in July of last season and did not disappoint. As a Tampa Bay Ray in ′24 his ERA was 5.07, but as a Brewer it was just 3.53. Civale's 14 second-half starts, which included a 6-2 record and a 3.45 ERA, were crucial due to multiple injuries to the pitching staff. His consistency and availability helped lead the Brewers to their second straight NL Central title.

William Contreras was rewarded for his stellar 2024 season by being named the first-string catcher on the all-MLB team, while adding his second consecutive Silver Slugger Award to his list of accomplishments. Contreras was voted the starting catcher in the All-Star Game, joining Ted Simmons (1984) and Jonathan Lucroy (2014) as just the third backstop in team history to accomplish the feat. A member of the 2021 World Series champion Atlanta Braves, Contreras was acquired by the Brewers following the 2022 season. His older brother Willson is a member of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Acquired from the New York Yankees in the Devin Williams trade, Nestor Cortes is expected to be a key part of the 2025 starting rotation. The seven-year veteran started 30 games in 2024 with a 3.77 ERA and a 1.15 WHIP. During the final two months of last season, Cortes went 4-2 with a 2.64 ERA over seven starts. He primarily relies on a four-pitch mix: 4-seam, cutter, sweeper and changeup. Cortes' fastball and cutter are easily his most-effective pitches. Cortes also had elite control in 2024. His 5.5% walk rate was the lowest of his career.

Oliver Dunn served more as a substitute at third base in 2024, but had impressive metrics despite limited playing time. His hard hit% and bat speed ranked very well among all MLB hitters, and a baserunning speed of 29.1 ft/second was better than 92% of all players in 2024. This offseason Dunn also played in the Dominican Winter League. As part of the Brewers' farm system in 2023, Dunn was named the Arizona Fall League Breakout Player of the Year.

Caleb Durbin comes to Milwaukee with Nestor Cortes as part of the trade that sent Devin Williams to the New York Yankees. As a part of the Yankees system in 2024, Durbin set the Arizona Fall League record for stolen bases with 29 and won the League's Breakout Prospect of the Year award. While at Division III Washington University in St. Louis, Durbin was named to the College World Series All-Tournament team and started all 40 games at shortstop in 2021.

Sal Frelick was rewarded for his National League-high 16 defensive runs saved, seven outs above average, six assists and a pair of home run robberies during the 2024 season by being named a Gold Glove Award winner. He joined Carlos Gómez and Lorenzo Cain as the only outfielders in team history to win the award. Frelick's best months were May (.757 OPS) along with June and August when the Boston College alum batted .273 and .274, respectively. In the Wild Card series against the Mets, Sal collected four hits in 11 at-bats, including a memorable home run in the seventh inning of Game 3 along with a ninth-inning single.

The Brewers used Eric Haase as a rare third catcher on the Major League roster in 2024 and it worked out well. Haase was a jolt of energy in the 30 games he appeared in. A good defensive presence and a .273 average with five home runs last year earned him another spot on the 40-man roster for 2025. Haase was also a road warrior last year. In games away from home, he slugged four of his five homers on the year and also hit .400 in 40 at-bats.

DL Hall came over with Joey Ortiz from Baltimore last offseason in the Corbin Burnes trade. The lefty appeared in 13 games last season with a 5.02 ERA and struck out 44. Hall's best attribute is his arsenal of pitches. His best pitch is his slider that has 39 inches of vertical drop and is easily his best "put away" pitch.

During his first season with the Brewers, Rhys Hoskins proved to be a reliable run producer in the middle of the lineup, finishing second on the team with 26 home runs and third in RBI with 82. His three grand slams tied a club record, held by John Jaha, Devon White and John Vander Wal. A fifth-round selection by Philadelphia in the 2014 draft, Rhys joined the Phillies in August 2017. In his rookie season, Hoskins hit 18 home runs in his first 34 games with 118 at-bats (one homer in every 6.6 at-bats).

Bryan Hudson went from being designated for assignment by the Dodgers, to becoming not just a top-end arm for the Brewers, but one of the best relief pitchers in all of baseball. As a rookie, Hudson went 6-1 and had a 0.72 WHIP and even made a run for an All-Star spot. Unfortunately, an oblique strain just after the All-Star break dropped his velocity, and he was sent down to Triple-A. The Crew hopes that a full rehab and Spring Training can get Hudson back to his regular form.

From 2019 to 2023, Jared Koenig bounced around in the minors with occasional apperances in the majors. That was until the Brewers signed him in free agency last offseason, and what an acquisition it was. In 2024, the 6′5″ lefty appeared in 55 games with a 2.47 ERA and was even used as an "opener" six times throughout the season when the starting rotation struggled with injuries. Koenig was so productive in tough spots that he was awarded the Brewers' Unsung Hero award for his efforts.

Pitcher

CAREER	2	6	5.20	106	0	0	0	0	107.1	105	65	14	59	128

The Brewers traded for Nick Mears in July of last season to give depth to the bullpen, especially with the absence of Bryan Hudson in the second half. During the Wild Card series against the New York Mets, Mears appeared in two of those games, pitching 2.1 innings and allowing no runs. He brings a powerful fastball and avoids a lot of loud contact, which helps in a hitter-friendly ballpark like American Family Field.

Trevor MEGILL

Pitcher

BATS: L | THROWS: R | HEIGHT: 6′8″ | WEIGHT: 255 | BIRTHDAY: 12/5/1993

CAREER	7	8	4.45	146	2	0	0	21	149.2	154	83	17	51	181

Trevor Megill got a taste of the closer's role during the first half of the 2025 season, converting 20 of 22 save opportunities when Devin Williams was injured. Originally a seventh-round selection by San Diego in the 2015 draft, Trevor was acquired by the Brewers in April 2023. Possessing a 99 mph fastball, Megill's strikeouts-to-innings-pitched ratio of 9.7 (50 in 45.1 innings) was a decrease from his career best rate of 13.5 in 2023. Much of that was by design; he sought to induce more ground balls to take advantage of his strong defense. Tylor, Trevor's younger brother, is a pitcher for the Mets.

After injuries sidelined Garrett Mitchell for parts of each of the past two seasons, a goal of the Brewers' first-round selection in the 2020 draft is to stay healthy in 2025, as he hopes to build on his already credible career .805 OPS. Garrett blasted a two-run home run in the eighth inning of Game 2 of the 2024 Wild Card series against the New York Mets to give the Brewers the win. Mitchell blasted a walk-off home run against the same Mets one year earlier on April 5. A superb defender, Mitchell recorded six defensive runs saved and accounted for three of Milwaukee's 10 home run robberies.

It is hard to find a time when Andruw Monasterio is not in a good mood. The always-smiling utility infielder is not an everyday player, but he personifies what it means to step up when your name is called. The third-year player out of Venezuela has appeared in 151 games over his first two seasons and is a career .243 hitter who shows up when it matters most. In 2024 his batting average was just .208, but in high leverage situations it rocketed to .286. Monasterio is a great locker-room presence who is not afraid of the moment.

Tobias Myers went from being a non-roster invitee in Spring Training to being named the winner of the Brewers' Most Valuable Pitcher award, compiling a 9-6 record with a 3.00 ERA in 25 starts. He became the fifth rookie in club history to be so honored, joining Pete Ladd, Teddy Higuera, Junior Guerra and Devin Williams. Tobias posted a perfect 4-0 mark with a 1.44 earned run average during June and followed this up with an ERA of 2.70 in July, 2.67 in August and 3.03 in September/October. In his final 2024 appearance, Tobias hurled five scoreless innings in his Game 3 start against the New York Mets in the National League Wild Card series.

In his rookie season, Joey Ortiz had some big shoes to fill. He was a key piece in the trade that sent Corbin Burnes to the Baltimore Orioles. His presence was felt early on, as he was awarded the NL Rookie of the Month award for May, and by season's end also ended up on the Baseball America All-Rookie Team. He played a massive role in the Brewers' Team Gold Glove Award, ranking 33rd in all of baseball in Fielding Run Value and 25th in Outs Above Average. Ortiz is entering his second full season in the majors.

Joel Payamps is back with the Crew in 2025 on a one-year contract after two impressive seasons in Milwaukee's bullpen. After joining the team in the trade that also brought over William Contreras, Payamps has been as steady as they get. His 1.11 second-half ERA in 2024 was seventh among all relief pitchers. Payamps also ranks fourth in holds the last two seasons with 48. Payamps has been one of the stars of a dominant Milwaukee bullpen.

Elvis PEGUERO

Pitcher

During the 2022 season with the Los Angeles Angels, Elvis Peguero had a 6.75 ERA. Over the last two seasons with the Brewers, that number has dropped to 3.20. Peguero is another product of what many fans have labeled the "Brewers Pitching Lab." He has redefined himself by relying heavily on getting batters to chase and getting the ball on the ground. Peguero ranked in the 94th percentile in both chase rate and ground-ball percentage. He is the exact middle reliever that Milwaukee has needed the last two seasons, and the team is excited for what he can bring to '25. The one-two punch of his slider and sinker that are both used 50% of the time both rank high in value among relievers.

Freddy Peralta led the 2024 Brewers with 32 starts en route to his second consecutive double-digit win season. August was Freddy's best month as the right-hander won all five of his starting assignments, while posting a 2.10 ERA. Peralta notched his second consecutive 200-strikeout season, joining right-handers Yovani Gallardo and Corbin Burnes, along with southpaw Teddy Higuera as the only pitchers in club history to record multiple 200-strikeout seasons. Peralta began his professional career with the Seattle Mariners before being acquired by Milwaukee following the 2015 season.

If there is a player that perfectly encapsulates the Brewers' theme of speed and fielding, it is Blake Perkins. Last season, Perkins was a runner up for the centerfield Gold Glove award, and tied himself with former Brewers' centerfielders Carlos Gómez and Lorenzo Cain for the most home run robberies in a season with five. Perkins was also in the 97th percentile for sprint speed at a blazing 29.6 ft/second. Perkins will always bring value to the lineup with his timely play in center and elite baserunning.

José Quintana joined the Brewers as a free agent this spring. The journeyman has been a part of seven teams over his 13-year career. He was an All Star in 2016 with the Chicago White Sox and has a career 3.74 ERA. The lefty spent the last two seasons with the New York Mets and was a key part of their NLCS run last year. Depth and veteran leadership is perfect for the Brewers' current roster, and Quintana provides both. A native of Arjona, Colombia, he is the country's leader in almost every significant MLB pitching stat, including games (359), starts (333), wins (102), innings pitched (1969.2) and strikeouts (1727).

Brice Turang earned a 2024 Gold Glove Award as the best defensive second baseman in the National League. As if this award was not sufficient, Turang was also named winner of the Platinum Glove Award, meaning that he not only was the best defender at his second base position but that he was the best in the entire league at any position. Brice led the majors with 21 defensive runs saved. Turang finished second on the Brewers with 4.6 Wins Above Replacement, trailing only William Contreras. The second baseman hit two of the team's 10 grand slams and led Milwaukee with seven bunt hits.

Abner Uribe is one of the most intriguing arms in the Brewers' bullpen. During the 2023 season, he threw the fastest pitch in Brewers history which clocked in at 103 mph. His main pitch is a sinker that sits at a cool 98.7 mph. Unfortunately, Uribe's 2024 campaign was cut short due to right knee surgery, but the 24-year-old will be ready to go by Opening Day. The flamethrower out of the Dominican Republic is a valuable piece to the bullpen. His best numbers have come in the eighth inning. In 10.2 career innings in the eighth, Uribe has only allowed one run and struck out 11 batters.

Since Brandon Woodruff became a regular big leaguer in 2018, the only starting pitchers in baseball with a better ERA are Jacob deGrom, Justin Verlander, Clayton Kershaw, Max Scherzer and Gerrit Cole, a litany of future Hall of Famers. Woodruff became a full-time starter with the Brewers in 2019, posting an 11-3 record. He started a career-high 30 games in 2021, notching a career-best 211 strikeouts, 2.56 ERA and 0.96 WHIP, while holding opposing hitters to a .200 batting average. The veteran pitcher will always be remembered in Brewers' lore for hitting a home run off Kershaw in Game 1 of the 2018 NLCS against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Before a back injury ended his 2024 season, Christian Yelich was one of the most productive players in baseball as the former NL Most Valuable Player Award winner finished with a .315 batting average and a .909 OPS. Yelich was named the 2018 Most Valuable Player and the runner-up in 2019 MVP voting, winning the NL batting title with averages of .326 and .329 in both 2018 and 2019, respectively. Yelich blasted 44 home runs in 2019, drove in 119 runs in 2018 and led the league with a .429 on-base percentage and a .671 slugging percentage in 2019. He posted league-leading OPS percentages of 1.000 and 1.100 in 2018 and 2019, respectively.

Jake Bauers will long be remembered for his pinch-hit home run in the seventh inning to break a scoreless tie in Game 3 of the 2024 Wild Card series against the Mets. An excellent defensive first baseman, Bauers recorded a .989 fielding percentage last season. He also saw action in right field, left field, as well four appearances on the pitching mound. Originally a seventh-round selection by the San Diego Padres in the 2013 draft, Bauers previously played for Tampa Bay, Cleveland, Seattle and the New York Yankees.

Career	49	4	10	2	0	.204	0	2	7	3	.316	.245	.561

Tyler Black's 2024 season included multiple callups to the Major League level. He saw only 49 at-bats but was never able to get consistent playing time in a competitive infield. With the departure of Willy Adames, Milwaukee's number five prospect now has the chance to see more big-league time in 2025. One of Black's biggest strengths is his plate discipline. In his 57 PAs last season, Black had a 20% chase rate and a 12.3% walk rate, which were both better than league average.

Mark Canha returns to the Brewers after playing for Detroit and San Francisco during the 2024 season. Milwaukee had acquired Canha from the New York Mets on July 31, 2023. Canha batted .287 and compiled a .800 OPS for the Brewers during the remainder of the 2023 season. He belted five home runs in 50 games, one of which was an eighth-inning grand slam against Washington on September 16 to break a 5-5 tie and send the American Family Field crowd of 36,212 into a state of pandemonium.

Vinny Capra is entering his fourth season in the big leagues and his second season as a Brewer. He only saw nine at-bats in the Majors last year but had 112 hits in 110 Triple-A games in 2024. Capra signed a one-year deal with Milwaukee this past offseason and is back on the 40-man roster. Capra also has great versatility and can play every position in the infield.

Isaac Collins made his MLB debut last season as a utility man. He played two games at second and five in left field. Collins was used as a pinch runner in late-game situations at the Major League level for his speed and baserunning ability. While in Triple-A Nashville, he tallied 500 plate appearances and recorded an impressive 14 home runs and 24 stolen bases.

The Brewers got five starts out of Robert Gasser in '24 before undergoing Tommy John surgery which ended his season and the first half of 2025. The rookie made the most of his limited time and put together an impressive 2.57 ERA and only walked one batter over 28 innings. Gasser was acquired via trade from the San Diego Padres in the Josh Hader deal during the 2022 season.

Brewer Hicklen gained attention in 2024 for his name that perfectly fits the organization. Although he only saw 5 at-bats, he has shown major power in the minors and the Brewers hope this can transfer to The Show. Hicklen slugged 22 home runs during the 2024 season in Triple-A Nashville, and 112 during his entire minor-league career.

Chad Patrick had himself a historic year in Triple-A last season for the Nashville Sounds. A 14-1 record, 2.90 ERA and 145 strikeouts earned him the AAA Pitching Triple Crown. His triple crown was just the third in International League history, and the first since Dennis Martinez in 1976. He also had a 1.09 WHIP and held his opponents to an exceptionally low .214 batting average.

The 22-year-old is the Brewers' #1 overall prospect and 15th in all of MLB. A shoulder injury in 2024 kept him out for the entire minor-league season. Despite an entire year erased, there are still no worries about Quero's future with the club. In his last full season, Quero slashed .262/.340/.443 with 16 home runs and drove in 51 runs.

Carlos Rodríguez was named the Brewers' #22 prospect for the 2024 season. The six-foot right-hander did see his first Major League chance after many rotation injuries. In three starts with the Crew, he amassed a 7.30 ERA, but a 2.2 BB/9 was half of what he had in AAA last year.

Elvin RODRÍGUEZ

Pitcher

BATS: R | THROWS: R | HEIGHT: 6′3″ | WEIGHT: 160 | BIRTHDAY: 3/31/1998

CAREER (NPB)	2	6	2.77	39	0	0	0	1	78.0	73	33	6	25	67

Elvin Rodríguez was recently signed by the Brewers after short stints with the Tigers and Rays, but most of his time the last two years was with the Yakult Swallows of NPB in Japan. There, he appeared in relief 32 times with a 1.80 ERA and 44 Ks across 45 innings. His contract includes a club option in '26. While he was predominantly a reliever in Japan, the 26-year-old did make seven starts during his two years overseas, which gives the Brewers nice versatility on the pitching staff.

Pope AutoWorx | meineke car care center

Pope Auto Worx is now branded as Meineke

As many have noticed, there are some changes at Pope Auto Worx, but not as many as it may seem. Justin Phillips and Steve Montgomery are the new owners of the business. We are both long-time Milwaukee County locals, and we are continuing the tradition of a family-owned business. We have already had the opportunity to meet many of you over the last few months. We are very sincere in our desire to continue the model Nick and Megan built of good, honest service. Frankly, the reason this all worked out was the similarity between their business model and our mindset. So, a few questions will arise.

Why Meineke?
Three simple answers: parts pricing, parts availability, and the inspection system. We feel that these will benefit our customers more than ever: Bringing you the best option (same great parts brands) at the best price possible and adding to your knowledge on what's going on with your car. We will show you what we see under and around your car so that you can best plan what needs to be done now or in the future.

What is staying the same?
We are building our business around the core that is already here. That means the same technicians you have grown to trust will still be working in the shop. We will add some new faces along the way, but the core group will remain. The high level of service from the office is also front and center. We are never going to tell you to spend on something that you don't need.

We ask you all to come in, chat with us, give us a chance to win your business! If we don't maintain the same exceptional level of service you have come to expect, please tell us. We will do everything we can to continue to earn you trust and long-term business.

A Rule 5 Draft pick and Top 30 Brewers prospect, Connor Thomas can be successful despite not having a powerful fastball. He has yet to appear in the majors, but his numbers show some potential of a big-league arm. In 90.1 innings in 2024, Thomas had a 2.89 ERA with a 4-1 record.

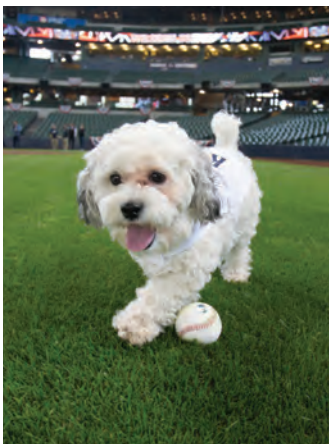
IN MEMORIAM

By Dennis Sell

Connie Attanasio, the mother of Brewers owner Mark Attanasio, passed away on January 22, 2025 at the age of 96. The firstborn child of Italian immigrants was born in 1928 in the Little Italy neighborhood of East Harlem. The family later relocated to Pelham Bay in the East Bronx. Voted "The Funniest" in her high school class, Connie graduated from Hunter College with a degree in Spanish. She used this talent throughout her life, most notably as a part-time tutor at Tenafly High School. Connie was known for her loyalty, her no-nonsense manner, her high standards, and most of all, her sharp and lively wit. Connie attended almost every Brewers home opener in person, proudly joining her husband, Joe, as he began every home season until his passing in 2015 by singing the national anthem.

While Felix Mantilla never played for the Brewers, his contribution to youth baseball in Milwaukee lives on today. Following his retirement from baseball, Felix helped organize the Felix Mantilla Little League in 1972, where he dedicated countless hours helping young players refine their skills while teaching them the values of teamwork, discipline, perseverance and academic focus. The league became the cornerstone of Milwaukee's youth baseball scene. Cardinal Stritch University recognized his commitment to youth baseball and academics by awarding him an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree in 2017. Mantilla spent the first six of his eleven-season Major League career as a utility player for the Milwaukee Braves. Felix holds the distinction of hitting the final home run by a Milwaukee player at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field on August 24, 1957. Mantilla finally had the opportunity to play regularly with the expansion New York Mets in 1962, batting .274 in 141 games. Traded to the Boston Red Sox in 1963, the Puerto Rican born Mantilla posted a career-best .315 average, became a home run hitter with 30 round-trippers in 1964, and was selected as an All-Star game starter in 1965. Felix died on January 10, 2025 at the age of 90.



In February 2014, a scruffy, stray dog with a tire mark on his fur and an injured tail, wandered into the Brewers' Spring Training facility in Arizona. The two-and-a-half-year-old canine was cleaned up and loved by Brewers' coaches, players and front office personnel who named him "Hank," after Milwaukee baseball icon Hank Aaron. The Brew Crew's new, unofficial mascot, nicknamed "Hank, The Ballpark Pup," quickly captivated the hearts of fans in Milwaukee and beyond. Hank was featured on national television shows and People magazine. Fans lined up to have their pictures taken with him. When Hank made his Miller Park debut, fans got up at 4:30 a.m. to get in line for a 7:00 a.m. meet-and-greet. Soon bobbleheads, T-shirts, plush toys, locker room plates, buttons, bumper stickers, pennants and other memorabilia, all sporting Hank's likeness, sprouted up seemingly overnight. Collectibles such as a Hank-worn All-Star Game jersey, made especially for him, his food bowl, and a bed on which the beloved dog once slept, were made available to fans, with proceeds benefitting the local Milwaukee humane society. In January 2015, Hank was named "Dog of the Year" at The CW network's World Dog Awards in Los Angeles. The beloved Hank died on September 12, 2024.

Hank Allen, who passed away on May 29, 2024 at the age of 83, was a member of a baseball family. In addition to Hank, his family included younger brothers Ron and Dick (a.k.a. Richie), the latter being the most famous of the trio (1964 NL Rookie of the Year and 1972 AL Most Valuable Player). The brothers combined for 358 home runs, with Dick hitting 351. The Brewers acquired Hank from the Washington Senators on May 10, 1970. Since "Hank Allen" sounded eerily similar to Milwaukee baseball icon "Hank Aaron," the new Brewer was assigned Aaron's uniform number 44. Allen, who hit .230 in 28 games for the 1970 Brewers, played five different position for the team—CF, RF, LF, 2B and 1B. In future seasons, Hank would play catcher and third base, accounting for seven of the nine positons on the field. Besides the Brewers and Senators, Allen also played for the White Sox during his seven-year career. His best season was in 1969 with Washington when he batted .277 in 109 games. Allen credited Senators' manager and Hall of Famer Ted Williams for his success that season.

IN MEMORIAM

For one magical night back in 1988, Odell Jones nearly became the toast of baseball. The date: May 28, 1988. The site: Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. The 35-year-old was starting his first Major League game since 1981. Pitching the game of his life, the right-hander hurled hitless ball for 8-1/3 innings, before current Angels' manager Ron Washington blooped a single to left on a 1-1 pitch. Jones, who had a perfect game until the eighth inning, wasn't even scheduled to start at all but was selected when Brewers' ace Teddy Higuera was battling back spasms. The 1988 campaign was the last of Odell's nine Major League seasons, which began in 1975. Appearing in 28 games for the 1988 Brewers, he finished with a 5-0 record and a 4.34 ERA. Besides the Brewers, Jones played for the Pirates, Mariners, Rangers and Orioles. Odell died on March 20, 2024 at the age of 71.

Robb Edwards served as the Brewers' public address announcer from 1998 through 2019, succeeding Bob Betts. Born in Chicago, Robb moved with his family to Milwaukee at a very young age, graduating from Pius XI High School. Combining his passions for music, radio and baseball, he hosted WTMJ's morning show from 1985 until 2000. Edwards also spent time at local radio stations WRIT and WOKY. Following his retirement from the Brewers, the stadium's scoreboard control room was named in his honor on December 12, 2019. Robb died on June 26, 2024 at the age of 79.

Although Willie Mays, who passed away on June 18, 2024, never played for the Brewers, a handful of his memorable accomplishments had Milwaukee ties. In a Sunday, April 30, 1961 afternoon contest at County Stadium, two days after the Braves' Warren Spahn tossed a no-hitter against his Giants, Mays became the ninth player to hit four home runs in a game. On July 2, 1963, at San Francisco's Candlestick Park, Willie broke up a scoreless tie with a walk-off home run in the 16th inning. Both Spahn and the Giants' Juan Marichal went the distance in what has been termed the "Greatest Game Ever Pitched," with each pitcher throwing over 200 pitches. Finally, on Sunday, June 29, 1975, the Brewers, who would host the 1975 All-Star game, held an Old-Timers' Day in which players from the 1955 Mid-Summer Classic held in Milwaukee were invited to participate. Willie, who had been retired less than two years, blasted a three-run home run off fellow Hall of Famer Early Wynn. The blast would be the final home run that Mays would ever hit.

Mike Ferraro appeared in 162 games over his four-season Major League career, 124 of them with the 1972 Milwaukee Brewers. As the Brew Crew's third baseman, Mike posted a .255 batting average with 18 doubles, a triple, two home runs and 29 RBI. Ferraro hit his first Major League home run in the 13th inning of a May 13, 1972, contest against the Twins at Metropolitan Stadium. It would have been a game-winner had Eric Solderholm not hit a two-run walk-off homer in the bottom half of the inning! Ferraro's days as the club's third baseman came to an end when the Brewers acquired Don Money from the Philadelphia Phillies following the '72 campaign. Mike got his start when the Yankees signed him upon his graduation from Kingston (NY) High School in June 1962. A three-sport athlete, he scored a school-record 53 points in a basketball game as a sophomore in February 1960. Following his playing days, Ferraro managed the Cleveland Indians in 1983 and Kansas City Royals in 1986, after serving as a coach of the World Series champion Royals in 1985. Mike died on July 20, 2024 at the age of 79.

The Milwaukee Brewers organization was deeply saddened by the death of Bob Uecker, the beloved radio "Voice of the Brewers" since 1971 on January 16, 2025, 10 days shy of his 91st birthday. Born and bred in Milwaukee, Bob played sandlot baseball here before embarking on his professional baseball career. The highlight of his six-year Major League career was being a member of the 1964 World Series winning St. Louis Cardinals. Although he joked about his career .200 average, Ueck has the distinction of hitting home runs off a trio of Hall of Fame pitchers – Fergie Jenkins, Sandy Koufax and Gaylord Perry. He made more than 100 appearances on The Tonight Show and was nicknamed "Mr. Baseball" by host Johnny Carson. Uecker became a national figure with his roles in the Miller Lite commercials, the Mr. Belvedere television program, the movie Major League and hosting Saturday Night Live. His catchphrase in describing a Brewers' home run – "Get up! Get up! Get outta here! Gone!" – will forever be remembered. (Read Adam McCalvy's story on Bob's final game, which begins on page 12 of the yearbook.)

MAKING A DIFFERENCE ON & OFF THE FIELD IN 2024

The Milwaukee Brewers Community Relations Department is dedicated to making a meaningful impact across Wisconsin by supporting a wide range of worthy events and initiatives. Through partnerships with charities, educational programs, youth organizations, and nonprofits, we help raise hundreds of thousands of dollars annually with the support of our players, coaches, and staff. By championing these causes, we reaffirm our commitment to being an active and engaged member of our community, striving to enhance the lives and well-being of individuals in Milwaukee and Wisconsin.

PLAYERS, COACHES, ALUMNI, AND STAFF PARTICIPATED IN OVER 5,900 HOURS VISITING NONPROFITS, SCHOOLS, & COMMUNITY-BASED ORGANIZATIONS.

MEET THE BROADCAST TEAM

Brian Anderson

Brian Anderson enters his 19th season with the Brewers after being named play-by-play announcer on January 10, 2007. He is a three-time recipient of the Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year Award (2013-14, 2017), which is presented by the National Sports Media Association. In 2023 and 2024, Anderson was nominated for National Sportscaster of the Year by the NSMA. He has received five Emmy Awards, most recently in 2020 for Outstanding Crafts Achievement for On-Camera Talent. In addition to Brewers telecasts, Anderson has called play-by-play for TBS's MLB postseason coverage for the past 17 seasons and will continue to call select national telecasts for MLBonTBS Tuesdays package in 2025. Outside of baseball, Anderson has covered a wide variety of events for TNT Sports, including the NBAonTNT, NCAA's March Madness, The Match, the PGA Championship, and new in 2025, Grand Slam tennis with the French Open at Roland Garros. He has called the NBA All-Star Game on TNT since 2023 and has been the play-by-play voice of the popular NBA2K video game since 2021.

Jeff Levering

Jeff Levering enters his fifth season as a play-by-play announcer for Brewers telecasts and will also continue to be a part of the radio broadcast team. He is in his 11th season as a Brewers broadcaster after joining the organization in January 2015. Levering was named Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year by the National Sports Media Association (NSMA) in 2023, an award he also won in 2020. He was nominated for an Emmy Award for Outstanding Crafts Achievement for On-Camera Talent in 2022. During each of the past 11 years, Levering has been a play-by-play broadcaster for college football and basketball games on FOX Sports and the Big Ten Network. Levering joined the Brewers after two seasons (2013-14) as the lead broadcaster for the Triple-A Pawtucket Red Sox.

Sophia Minnaert

Sophia Minnaert enters her 13th season as a sideline reporter for Brewers broadcasts. She is also in her eighth year as broadcast and digital features content director, a position she was named to in June 2018. Minnaert is a two-time winner of Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year (2022, 2024) from the National Sports Media Association, the only female to ever win the award. She won an Emmy Award for Outstanding Crafts Achievement for On-Camera Talent in 2018 and was nominated for the honor from 2019-21 and 2023. In the offseason, Minnaert hosts Inside Marquette Basketball with men's basketball coach Shaka Smart. She previously handled sideline duties for the Milwaukee Bucks and for the WIAA state football championships. Prior to joining Brewers telecasts, Minnaert covered high school state championships for PlayOn! Sports Midwest on FOX Sports Wisconsin, FOX Sports Midwest and CSN Chicago.

Lane Grindle

Lane Grindle enters his 10th season as a radio broadcaster for the Brewers after joining the team in February 2016. He will partner with Jeff Levering and Josh Maurer on the Brewers Radio Network in 2025. In the offseason, Grindle handles play-by-play for the Missouri Valley Football Conference on ESPN3 in addition to calling numerous college basketball games on various outlets, including FOX Sports 1. Grindle joined the Brewers following 10 seasons (2006-15) behind the microphone for University of Nebraska baseball radio broadcasts on the Husker Sports Network.

Bill Schroeder

Bill Schroeder enters his 31st season with the Brewers as a color commentator. He joined the television broadcast team in 1995 following a distinguished playing career as a catcher. Schroeder spent eight seasons (1983-90) in the majors with the Brewers and California Angels, including a career year in 1987 in which he batted .332 with 42 RBI and a career-high 14 HR. He caught the first no-hitter in franchise history, thrown by Juan Nieves in Baltimore on April 15, 1987. He was traded to the Angels following the 1988 campaign and retired in 1990. In recognition of Schroeder's long-serving tenure on the broadcast team, he was enshrined on the Brewers Wall of Honor on July 17, 2015. In the organization's history, only Hall of Famer Bob Uecker has broadcast more games

MEET THE BROADCAST TEAM

Josh Maurer

Josh Maurer enters his fourth season with the Brewers after joining the team in February 2022. He will serve as a daily presence on the Brewers Radio Network, including partnering with Lane Grindle when Jeff Levering is on the television broadcast. Maurer came to the Brewers after eight seasons (2014-21) as the television and radio voice of the Worcester (formerly Pawtucket) Red Sox, the Triple-A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox. He served as play-by-play broadcaster for Double-A Trenton from 2012-13 and Class-A Charleston from 2005-08. Maurer was also a fill-in television broadcaster for the Philadelphia Phillies on NBC Sports Philadelphia and for the Boston Red Sox on NESN.

Tim Dillard

Tim Dillard enters his fifth season as an analyst on Brewers telecasts. Prior to joining the broadcast team, Dillard pitched professionally for 18 seasons (2003-20), including with the Brewers (2003-18) and Texas Rangers (2019) organizations. He concluded his career by winning an American Association championship with the independent Milwaukee Milkmen in 2020. After earning Brewers Minor League Pitcher of the Year in 2005, Dillard made his Major League debut in 2008 and pitched parts of four seasons in the majors with Milwaukee (2008-09, 2011-12).

Craig Coshun

Craig Coshun enters his 25th season on Brewers telecasts as a host of the team's pregame and postgame show, Brewers Live. Previously a sideline reporter, he has also filled in handling play-by-play duties and cohosts the Brewers Extra Innings postgame show on Newsradio 620 WTMJ. In addition to his role with the Brewers, Coshun is a host of Bucks Live on Milwaukee Bucks telecasts following the baseball season. Coshun and the FanDuel Sports Network Wisconsin production team have captured multiple Emmy Awards for their work covering the Brewers and Bucks.

Vinny Rottino

Vinny Rottino enters his fifth season as an analyst on Brewers telecasts. Rottino played professionally for 14 seasons (2003-16) in the Brewers (2003-09), Los Angeles Dodgers (2009), Florida Marlins (2010-11, 2015), Cleveland Indians (2012), New York Mets (2012) and Chicago White Sox (2016) systems. He played parts of five Major League seasons with Milwaukee (2006-08), Florida (2011), New York-NL (2012) and Cleveland (2012). Rottino also played for the Orix Buffaloes in the Nippon Professional Baseball League in Japan (2013) and for the Nexen Heroes in the Korea Baseball Organization (2014).

Stephen Watson

Stephen Watson enters his fourth season as a host of Brewers Live, the team's pregame and postgame show. He also hosts Bucks Live on Milwaukee Bucks telecasts. Watson is a co-host of On The Tee, a weekly golf radio show on ESPN Milwaukee and serves as a host and play-by-play announcer for PGA Tour Live on ESPN+. Watson spent seven years (2014-22) as a sports anchor and reporter at ABC affiliate WISN-TV in Milwaukee. He was named Best Large Market Sports Reporter by the Wisconsin Broadcast Association in 2018, 2019 and 2021 and earned Emmy Awards for Best Sports Feature in 2016, 2019 and 2021. Watson has been nominated for an Emmy for Outstanding Crafts Achievement for On-Camera Talent in 2022 and 2024.
